

Patrick Sets Record Half Mile

By BILL HALLS

DETROIT (AP)—Jim Ryun remained unperturbed as the Kansas plains, where he learned to run, after watching a human buzz saw named Dave Patrick chew up the 11-lap board track for an indoor half-mile record.

"I knew I was in trouble when everyone came around me," said the Kansas comet, who holds both the world half-mile and mile records. "Patrick just ran a great race. He didn't surprise me."

Patrick, Villanova's latest distance darling, led from the start on his way to a record 1:48.9 clocking for the 800 Friday night at the two-day NCAA Indoor Track Championships at Cobo Arena.

Patrick clipped one-tenth of a second off the existing 800 indoor record of 1:49.0 set by Tom Von Ruden, former Oklahoma State star, at Louisville, Ky., Feb. 18, and smashed the old NCAA indoor mark of 1:51.3 set by Von Ruden in 1965.

Mark Didn't Count
Ryun ran a 1:58.3 half mile in an indoor dual meet against Oklahoma State Feb. 23, but the mark was not recognized because it was made on a dirt track.

Ryun, who had to turn on his great kick to win his heat of the mile trials in a modest 4:08, appeared tired throughout the half mile final, but still managed a 1:50.7 clocking in his third race of the day, good enough to beat Von Ruden's NCAA mark.

Defending champion Gerry Lindgren of Washington State shook off a mysterious sore foot to clip more than six seconds off his NCAA indoor two-mile record. He was timed in 8:34.7, finishing 40 yards ahead of George Scott of New Mexico.

He received a standing ovation from the 9,551 fans for his performance which bettered the mark of 8:41.3 he set last year on the same track.

Blankenheim and Miescke each scored 14 points for Horicon. Jim Dushak and Dan Peterson collected 15 apiece for Paca. Peterson posted nine points in the second frame.

Frigid free throwing also hurt the Waupaca cause. It only hit on six of 15 while Horicon turned in 13 of 17.

Kaukauna to Play Green Bay Wildcats

2 ranked small school fought Friday night. Wausaukee was still very much in the ball game, at 65-57, when Busick sank a driving layup with 3:42 left in the last period. The Kaukauna lead had been as much as 15 points at the start of the quarter, but the press caused two Ghost turnovers in a short span and brought the Rangers back into contention.

With under four minutes remaining and still enjoying an 8-point advantage, Kaukauna was very much tempted to slow things down. But remembering the previous game against Sturgeon Bay where such tactics had backfired in a similar situation, the Ghosts decided to continue at their normal hectic pace.

Pushes Lead to 10
Vandehey first whipped in a 15-footer from the circle to push to the lead back up to 10 points. Len Krazewina canned one of two gift tosses for Wausaukee, but then Kavanaugh notched a jumper from the side to give the Ghosts a 69-58 spread with 3:01 showing. The two pressure buckets put the Ghosts out of the reach for good.

Kavanaugh added two more buckets to his total before bowing out with five fouls with 1:29 remaining. Reserve Bob Jansen, who filled in capably for the Denny Spice when the latter got into foul trouble, hit a turnaround jumper and Vanden-scored 36 points. The Hillmen, (22-0), who face Madison West in the Janesville finals, are Wisconsin's only unbeaten team.

West, (18-6) with Tom Boettcher recovered from a knee injury, whipped Stoughton 77-67. Boettcher scored 25 points. Seventh-ranked Whitefish Bay (21-1) moved into the finals of the Oconomowoc Sectional by shelling Cedar Grove 62-39 despite being held to a three-point lead at halftime.

Whitefish Bay is paired with Waterloo (20-3), a 79-70 victor in overtime over Cedarburg.

Waterloo, which outscored Cedarburg 9-0 in the extra period, was led by Rich Schroeder and Don Thompson. Each scored 27 points.

Tenth-ranked La Crosse Central (20-3) mauled Boscobel 94-56 in the La Crosse Sectional as Jim Nordrum scored 27 points and John Ford 18.

Central goes against Baraboo (19-3), which almost blew an 11-point halftime lead before snuffing out Ellsworth 53-49.

Glidden, 10th-ranked small school was the only rated team besides Wausaukee, to bow out Friday night.

Schell Stars
Cumberland, a 1965 tournament team, garrotted the Bears 71-44 as a familiar name. Carroll Schell, took scoring honors with 24 points.

Schell's brother, John, a 1965 all-state player, is now a member of the University of Wisconsin varsity.

Cumberland goes against Barron (21-1) for Spooner Sectional honors tonight. The Bears took Glenwood City 86-76 as three players scored in double figures.

Horicon (14-8), which hasn't been in the Madison games since 1933, moved closer to a return trip with a 45-42 win.

Trophy came back from a 15-0 favored Waupaca in the 13 loss to score 15-13 and 15-10 Neenah sectional. The Marshmen, with two players over 6-foot-6, put the game Charles Heeter. Orr Koepke, away with free throws in the final. Bob Bues, Jim Warrick and final seconds.

The UW-Fox Valley Center took third place.

Heuvel made it an appropriate finish by connecting on a corner jump shot with one second left.

Busick got 10 of his points in Wausaukee's final quarter bid. But typical of the Rangers' frustration for the night at the foul line, Busick missed three bonus setups in the period and managed only two free throws in 10 attempts for the game. The Rangers got the bonus with 5:53 left in the second period, and again with :25 left in the third quarter, but missed five setups completely and hit only three of six attempts on other occasions.

Ahead Only Once

Wausaukee was ahead once that at 4-2 with 55 seconds elapsed. Baskets by Carstens and Kavanaugh pushed the Ghosts into a 6-4 lead, but Marv Fleck's rebound goal tied it again. Then Carstens hit a short jumper from the baseline to send the Ghosts in front to stay.

The Rangers closed to 12-11 on Fleck's second goal of the game, but then the Ghosts broke for five points in succession. Carstens canned a free throw and Vandehey got two buckets, one on a steal, the other a five-footer. Carstens got another tap-in to put Kaukauna up, 21-15 at the quarter.

Kaukauna gradually stretched its advantage to eight, 10, and as many as 16 points in the second quarter behind the shooting of Carstens and Kavanaugh. Carstens had 12 points at the half, and the Ghosts owned a 42-27 lead. The biggest spread had been at 41-25.

VandenHeuvel's drive at the start of the third frame opened the largest gap of the night at 44-27, but the Rangers had no intentions of quitting. They outscored the Ghosts, 9-2, in the next two minutes to cut the lead back to 10 at 46-36.

Constant Press
Despite the constant press, however, the Rangers could creep no closer and trailed, 58-45, going in the last period. VandenHeuvel really stood out in the third stanza, netting five baskets on an assortment of layups, rebounds, and jump shots.

In the second game of the night, Green Bay West fought off a stubborn Mishicot quintet in the fourth quarter to post its 63-57 victory. Guard Jim Anderson of the Wildcats hit two free throws with 1:29 remaining to put his team up by four points at 61-57, and after the Indians lost the ball, Doug Behrendt iced the game with a layup.

West raced to a 32-23 lead at the half after the two clubs were tied, 14-14, at the end of the first period. However, led by 6-5 center Pete Holmes, the Indians rallied to tie the game at 35-all with 3:27 left in the third quarter.

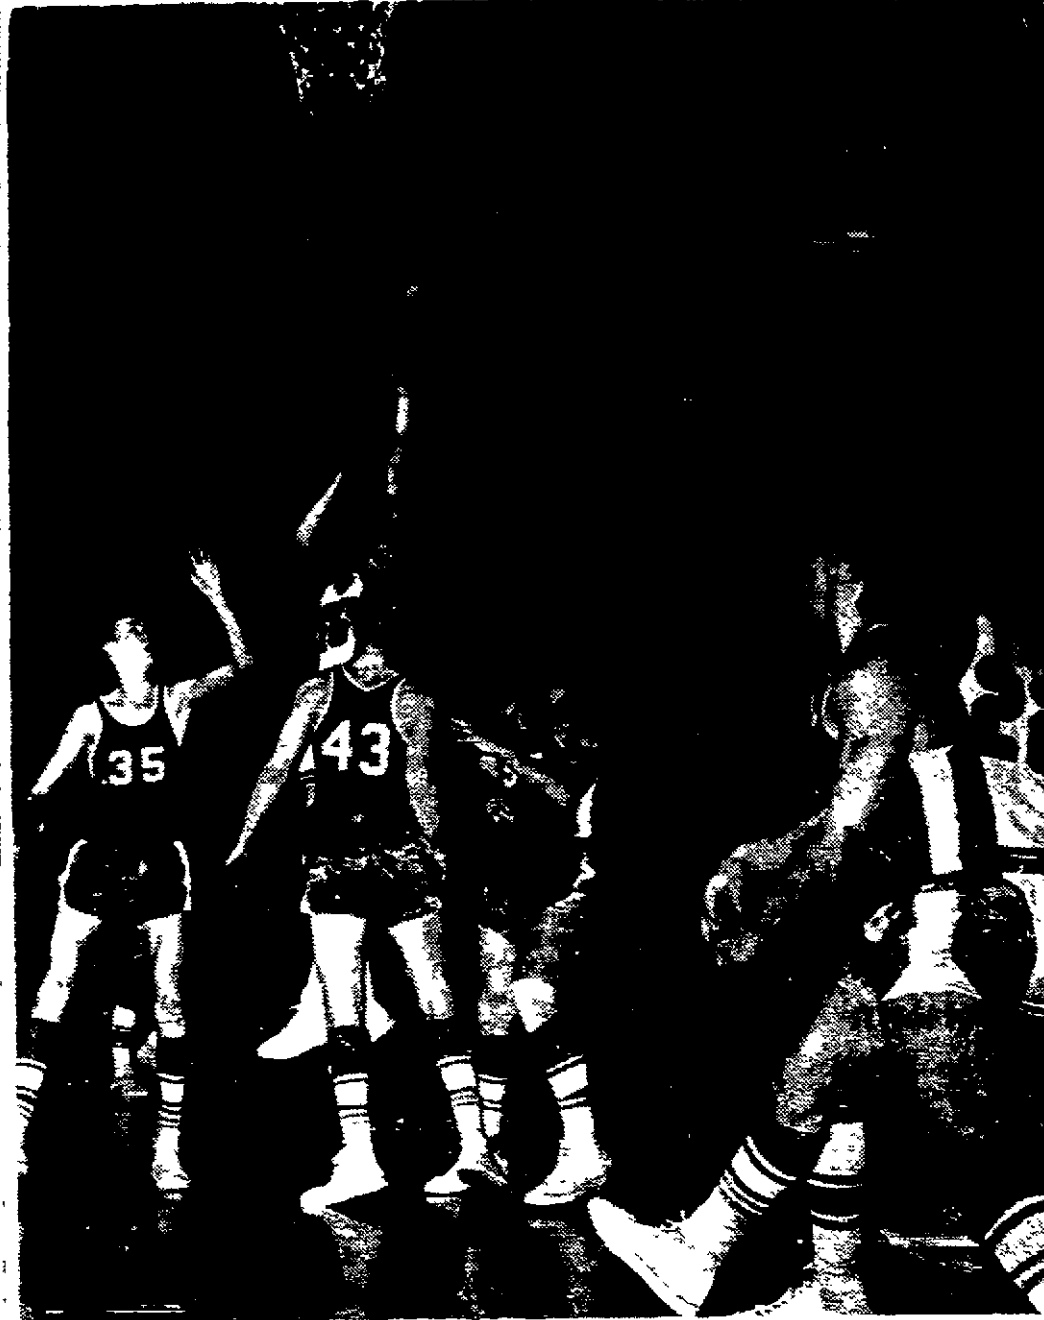

The Wildcats regained the lead on baskets by Jerry Tagge and Doug Behrendt at 39-35, and kept the lead between two and seven points the remainder of the game. Behrendt's 18 points topped West and Anderson added 14, while Gust Meyer paced Mishicot performers with 17 and Holmes chipped in with 11.

Madison Square Garden Scene Of Riot After Narvaez Fight

By MURRAY ROSE

Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The next time I cover a fight involving Frankie Narvaez I'm going to wear a combat helmet. Twice is more than enough without head protection especially for one with as much hair as a billiard ball.

No one is blaming the little Puerto Rican battler, a game and pleasing fighter who usually takes three punches or more to get in one.

The stubby, 5-foot-3½ lightweight was soundly beaten Friday night by sensational Ismael Laguna in a 12-round between the world's two top contenders at Madison Square Garden.

Only a few seconds after the unanimous verdict was announced a small group of rowdies started tossing bottles and other missiles from the balcony and side arena.

First Riot Worse
This was Narvaez' first appearance in the Garden since Aug. 4, 1965 when he dropped a close, 10-round verdict to Filipino Flash Elorde on a split decision that touched a 23-minute riot — the worst in the Garden in 40 years.

There was only a crowd of 6,618 fans — most Narvaez rooters — in the Garden that night. And it was a more destructive crowd than the 11,580 for the Laguna-Narvaez scrap.

The Narvaez-Elorde fight was close. The Laguna-Narvaez fight was a thriller but not close. The fast punching Panamanian won decisively.

Surprisingly not too many spectators were hurt in the first riot. But a beer-guzzling and whisky drinking group of about 50 to 100, tossed bottles, beer cartons, fire axes, fire extinguishers and chairs about the arena.

Organ Goes
Small groups of frenzied fans tore out five chair seat sections, ripped away brass and iron railings and pitched the Garden organ over a railing five feet to the floor.

Police finally used fire hoses to quell the rioters. That night Narvaez was an 11-5 favorite. Two officials voted 5-4-1 in rounds each for Elorde while the third had it 7-2-1 for Narvaez.

For the Laguna fight, Narvaez was a 9-5 underdog. The three officials had Laguna the winner by scores of 9-3, 8-3-1 and 7-5.

While the rioters for the Narvaez-Elorde fight caused more damage to the Garden, the rowdies at the Laguna fight were more dangerous. They fired bottles like big league pitchers — hard and too accurately.

When the bottles started flying towards the ring and into the ringside sections, most of the newsmen and photographers at the ringside smartly dived under the ring. The fans raced out of the arena.

Sports-Writer Cut
Bill Verigan, a United Press International sports writer covering the fight, was sitting five seats from me. Both of us were trying to write and file our stories. I saw a bottle hit him in the face. A huge cut opened over his right eye. He tried to keep working but the blood blinded him.

He was treated by a fight trainer and later was taken to St. Clare's hospital with four other injured persons.

I was told that from 12 to 15 persons were treated in the Garden.

After Verigan was hit, I placed my hands over my head. Charlie Dow, my Western Union operator, who had transmitted my fight-ending bulletin, had dived under the ring. He handed me a chair from under the ring and I used it to cover my head.

The special police and city police and most everyone else in the fast emptying arena were doing the same.

The organizer started playing the Star Spangled Banner and about 10 minutes it was all over.

Astros' Mathews, Landis Shine

Belinsky Has People Talking Again—Now About His Pitching

By HAL BOCK

Associated Press Sports Writer

Bo Belinsky, once a loquacious left-hander but now just a serene southpaw, has people talking about him again.

It's been five years since Bo was the toast of Hollywood, and at 30 he's getting what could be a final shot at the big leagues.

Belinsky, who pitched the first no-hitter ever in California — before Koufax and before Marichal, he likes to boast — hurried four hitless innings Friday as the Astros opened their exhibition season with a 3-0 shutout against Washington.

Rookie Don Wilson worked the first four innings and veteran Jim Owens pitched the ninth for the Astros, who got encouraging performances from two other winter acquisitions—Ed Mathews and Jim Landis.

Mathews, acquired from the Braves, singled home Houston's first run, and Landis, who came from Cleveland, smacked two singles and scored a run.

Fans Four
Belinsky struck out four and the only runner against him came on an error.

Meanwhile Cincinnati's Jim Maloney, Ernie Broglio and Darrell Osteen combined to blank Philadelphia 7-0 as the Reds hopped on Jim Bunning and Chris Short for five runs.

Dick Simpson tagged a two-run homer off Short.

Willie Horton drove in four runs with a homer and two singles as Detroit edged Kansas City 3-7 in a slugfest. Five home runs were hit, with Mickey Stanley, Jim Northrup, and Horton connecting for the Tigers and rookies Sal Bando and Tony LaRussa for the Athletics.

Horton's eighth inning single drove in the winning run for Detroit.

Tommie Agee belted a three-run homer off Boston's Dennis Bennett and Chicago took advantage of four Red Sox errors for an 8-3 victory. Tony Conigliaro homered for Boston.

Plan Not Used
The game was expected to mark the debut of the double pinch hitter, a plan which Joe Cronin, the American League's president, has endorsed. It allows American League teams playing each other to use the same pinch hitter more than once in a game.

Bill Skowron was the White Sox' designated specialist and Tony Horton handled the job for the Red Sox. But neither team used its option, with Skowron walking in his only at bat and Stach's free throw got the Terrors rolling again, and Simon converted a steal into a basket — and the lead was back up to 10. Kramer hit a free throw, but Lutz fired home the final goal of the third quarter and the first one of the fourth period and the AHS lead was 57-44 Hoffman connected from a deep corner spot and the lead was back up to an insurmountable 15 points.

Enroute to their 15-point night's, Hoffman was 6 for 10 from the field, Hintz was 7-for-15 and Simon 7-for-13. Jones sank six of 11 floor attempts.

Comes Back Strong
Lutz, who had seen little action in recent Terror games because of a knee injury, came back strong last night with seven points and some inspired rebounding.

Only two Huskies managed to crack double figures. Woelfel sank five of eight floor shots and tallied 16 points, the game's top total. Kramer, held to three points in the first half, finished with 11.

AHS shot at a 40 per cent accuracy rate from the field — peppering away 75 times and registering 30 successes. New Holstein had a slightly better percentage (.417) but was held to 33 shots by harassing, ball-stealing AHS defenders. The Huskies sank 20 baskets.

New Holstein takes a 17-4 record into tonight's consolation game against Waupaca (18-4).

The Twins held a 5-1 lead into the ninth, but Baltimore pushed one run across and then tied the score on Sam Bovens' two-out, three-run homer.

After Minnesota had scored a run in the top of the 11th, the Orioles tied it again on a bunt single by rookie Mark Belenger and a 400-foot triple by Russ Snyder. Then Woodie Held's two-run homer won it.

rebound, and Jones also came through with a bell-ringing rebound. Hoffman swished one of his artistic corner shots, and Simon wrapped it up with a 15-point goal in the final two seconds of the first half.

Becomes Snarled
While the Huskies' attack became frequently snarled in AHS' octopus-like zone defense, the Terrors' scoring tempo continued strong in the first 4½ minutes of the third period. The lead grew to 14 points twice (59-35 and 59-36).

In the next 1½ minutes, however, New Holstein cut its deficit in half. Jerry Woelfel led a 7-point spurge which shaved the AHS lead to 50-43. This proved to be New Holstein's last gasp despite the 4-foul status of Hintz and Jones. Terror re-serves Rick Starch and Gary Lutz came through typically to help take up the slack.

Stach's free throw got the Terrors rolling again, and Simon converted a steal into a basket — and the lead was back up to 10. Seven persons were injured, although only one was taken to a hospital, as a result of three accidents on Outagamie County roads Friday afternoon and early today.

Lester F. Koerth, 47, route 1, Brillion, was taken to Kaukauna Community Hospital by Kaukauna Ambulance after his car left Outagamie County Trunk Q, near Hawes Road, and struck a culvert about 3:30 p.m. Friday.

County police said Koerth, who was alone in the car, suffered injuries to his left leg and right shoulder and cuts on the face and head. Koerth told police he was going too fast to make a curve. The car went off the road on the north side.

Koerth, who was on his way to work in Kaukauna, was westbound on Q.

Three young occupants of one car were injured about 1:30 a.m. today when the auto they were in left Shady Road near Isar Road, in the Town of Seymour, and struck a tree.

Taken to a Seymour clinic by Seymour squad car were the driver of the car, John J. Andrews, 18, route 2, Seymour.

Barclay, 18, route 3, Seymour, with a cut left arm; and Thomas J. Eichenreich, 17, her landlord, Frank Rutledge, route 3, Seymour, with a cut, a bruise on his forehead and abrasions to the chin and left arm.

Seymour and Outagamie County police investigated the accident. Damage was estimated at $600.

County police said Garvey, 44, driver of one car, suffered a right knee injury, while his wife had a bump on the forehead. Mrs. Van Camp, passenger in a car driven by her husband, 66, suffered a cut nose.

Police said the Garvey car was southbound on E and the Van Camp car was backing out of a driveway onto E when the accident occurred. Damage totaled more than $1,000, police said.

Seek Broader Use of State Honor Grants

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — State honors scholarships for top-ranking high school seniors should be extended to allow students to use them to attend out-of-state colleges, according to the State Commission for Higher Educational Aids.

And they should be made available to the students during all four years of college rather than only the freshman year currently allowed, they voted.

The group also established a long-range policy planning study in the field of facilities and which may touch on non-facilities questions covering the field of the Coordinating Committee for Higher Education.

The long-range facilities plan will be financed with $96,000 in federal funds which must be requested by May 15. The Commission voted to allow the staff to request the funds, after disagreements as to whether the facilities study would overlap into areas which concern the CCE.

Hortonville Woman Pays Costs on Charge Of Disorderly Conduct

A disorderly conduct charge against Mrs. Shirley Sasse, 27, route 2, Hortonville, was dropped Friday afternoon on a motion by Dist. Atty. Nick F. Schaefer.

Mrs. Sasse pleaded innocent Tuesday. Trial was to have been with a cut left arm; and Thomas J. Eichenreich, 17, her landlord, Frank Rutledge, route 3, Seymour, with a cut, a bruise on his forehead and abrasions to the chin and left arm.

Seymour and Outagamie County police investigated the accident. Damage was estimated at $600.

Fagan Calls for Strict Enforcement Of Civil Rights

MADISON (AP) — The State Industrial Commission should pursue enforcement of civil rights rather than wait to act on complaints, the commission's chairman said Friday.

Chairman Joseph Fagan told a Joint Finance Committee hearing that commission members, who enforce state laws governing fair housing and employment, "are pledging ourselves to an affirmative program."

The commission has asked the legislature for $26.5 million for its budget for the next two years. The request includes $282,000 for equal opportunities work, a 43 per cent increase over the 1965-67 figure.

Incomplete Payment Forms Haunt Physicians Service

Missing signatures and addresses are frequent problems that Wisconsin Physicians Service has run into in processing doctor bill request for payment forms from medicare beneficiaries, Frank M. Donnick, social security district manager in Appleton says.

Representatives of Wisconsin Physicians Service, carrier for medicare doctor bill payments in the Appleton area, have reported that some beneficiaries have received repayment for doctor bills later than was necessary because they forgot to sign their forms or to include their address.

The signature on the request for payment authorizes the carrier to pay the claim. Wisconsin Physicians Service has to have the signature before the claim can be paid.

Address Problems
A missing address presents even a bigger problem, Donnick said. "Without the address, Wisconsin Physicians Service doesn't know where to send the check, and the only way to get it is to write back to the doctors, who are sometimes reluctant to give out their patients' addresses."

Donnick said there are two ways to get payment for doctor bills under medicare. Under the first method the doctor makes the claim to the medicare carrier. When the other method is used, the beneficiary pays the doctor bill and sends the claim to the carrier.

Care Sought
Beneficiaries sending in their own request for payment forms should be especially careful to give all information called for, Donnick said, including their address, medicare identification number, and the doctor's name and address.

Also, the beneficiary should either have his doctor complete the second part of the request for payment form or enclose an itemized receipted bill before sending in his claim.

"Because Wisconsin Physicians Service has reported some problems with claims from this area," Donnick said, "we are suggesting that beneficiaries making their first claim bring the forms and receipts to the social security office. By letting us check the request for payment forms before they are sent to the medicare carrier, the beneficiary can be sure that his claim won't be delayed because some item has been left off."

Donnick said that persons unable to come to the office, 401 S. Elm St., Appleton, can mail in their forms. Persons who mail in their forms should indicate their telephone number so that they can be contacted if additional information is needed.

$10.8 Million Building Plan Seen at UW-GB planning firm of Davern and Associates, is $10,862,768.

Support Seen

Indications have been given that support for a major commitment to the UW-GB and its sister school to the south—form-erly lacking—have been elicited from Gov. Warren P. Knowles, chairman of the Building Commission, and state Sen. Jerris Leonard, the chairman of its university affairs subcommittee.

While total support may be lacking for the entire package, an upward revision in the level of state support is expected to come out of the Commission meeting scheduled for Monday afternoon.

In the past, Leonard has championed the cause of cutting the UW spending proposals for the two new institutions, as enrollments to justify the high level spending would not be present on the campus during the first few years, he maintained.

His proposal to cut the total UW request for the new schools from $28.5 million to $12.8 million was supported on the Commission by a majority of its members, including Knowles.

But Leonard has always stated carefully that he holds the door open to increased funding if need can be demonstrated.

In direct response to his position, UW administrators and the CGHE have recommended that a revision in the long-range planning for the new campuses be effected to supply vast increases in the numbers of students enrolled at the new schools during the first years of operation.

Close Centers
To achieve that goal, they have recommended the closing of the existing two year centers in Green Bay, Racine and Kenosha in 1970, four to five years ahead of schedule.

In that year, the Green Bay campus under the new plan will have 2,100 students enrolled, rather than the 800 plus originally planned.

Menominees Turn Concern To Education, Industry

KESHENA, Wis. (AP) — The planned, and the Indians are trying to attract an electronics plant, says a local official. The tribe is five years old, and is sufficiently advanced for the Indians to be more concerned about education than about traditional problems of health and poverty.

Richard Dodge, local Community Action Project director, said Menominee County residents are still engaged in a bitter struggle with poor health, but that self-government has brought them within sight of the future importance of education.

The best sign of improvement, he said, is that the Menominees are determined to make a success of self government including the creation of industry. Few, he said, have any desire to return to the former reservation status.

Dodge spoke this week to a Green Bay group concerning the County's improvement since the Menominee ended government control in 1961 and began running their own welfare programs.

The unemployment rate, he said, has dropped from 18.1 per cent of the potential work force to 7 per cent, 57 new homes have been built with government funds and 50 more are being planned.

The infant mortality rate has dropped from 63.1 per cent to less than 20 per cent, high school drop-outs are returning to night classes and there are 55 Menominees in college.

But some problems continue, he noted. About 15 per cent of the county's population is on welfare compared to a state average of 2.5 per cent.

Health Problems

More than 90 per cent of children less than 19 years old need dental care, and 33 per cent of the population is being treated for tuberculosis.

The Menominee, he said, are negotiating with industry to build plants. There is only one major industry in the county, a saw mill with limited employment. A co-op store is being

In addition to Miss Taniguchi, Miss Daehn and Boncher are familiar to previous Festivalgoers. A newcomer this year is Justin Parrot.

Parrot teaches music at Grosse Point, Mich., and is a graduate of Northwestern College at Minneapolis and received his master's degree in music at Michigan State University. He has also attended Northwestern University, Peabody School of Music and the University of Oregon. He has taught in Kentucky, Michigan, France, Germany and Japan. State Suggests Programs at County Home

Report on Volunteers Result of Recent Visits by Department

Recommendations for several new programs and activities for residents of the Outagamie County Golden Age Home were contained in a State Department of Public Welfare report received Friday by County Board Chairman Sylvester Esler.

The report, the state agency noted, is a result of visits to the Golden Age Home within the past year by department representatives.

One recommendation was for record-keeping of all volunteer work assignments.

Brief Workers

It said volunteer workers at the home should be briefed for individual assignments at the time of each visit; that they be given in-service training in each activity until they are ready to work by themselves in the home's wards; and that they meet with home supervisors each time they leave to discuss questions and problems they encountered.

"Later," the report stated, "when the staff feels it is possible to expand the program, volunteers may be assigned to perform a few additional activities."

Some of the activities recommended were poetry reading, groups, literary classes, game, and discussion groups, fortune telling and guessing games, puzzles and conundrums, taking residents for rides with the approval of the home's administrator, reading, visiting and writing letters on referrals.

Makers Decorations

Others were helping the residents to make party or seasonal decorations, making layettes or crib-sized quilts for needy children, making large-size comforters for needy families, preparing gifts, helping with typing or giving personal appearance assistance.

Supervisors to View Accounting Equipment

Outagamie County Executive Secretary Alvin Woehler and members of the county board's purchasing and general accounts committee will be out of town next week to examine modern accounting equipment.

The Outagamie delegation will look at National Cash Register equipment and will be in Chicago on Wednesday to look at equipment used in Outagamie County, Esler said.

$10.8 Million Plan Offered UW-GB

Two Major Buildings Seen for '70

MADISON — A $10.8 million development plan for the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay will be presented to the state Building Commission Monday.

The plan, which calls for the construction of two major buildings and an underground "plaza" for temporary space on the campus by 1970, is a part of a package plan which has been developed by the UW, the Coordinating Committee for Higher Education, the state Bureau of Engineering and planning firms hired to develop the first stages of the campus.

Total cost of the package for two new branch campuses being constructed in Brown and Kenosha Counties could reach $36 million during the first two years of operation. University vice president Charles Engman repeated to the institutions Board of Regents Friday.

UW package and a similar but unpriced proposal for the UW-Parkside were approved by a committee of the board Friday and will be presented to the body for formal action today.

The UW-GB plan envisions the construction of the first phase of a resource center at a cost of $5.2 million, a library-classroom building costing $2.7 million, and a surge space for temporary use at a cost of $1.8 million, and about $1 million in site development work.

The surge space would be constructed as the underground "plaza" and would eventually be converted into a computer center tied in to a similar campus facility on the Madison campus, and a communications center.

Exact cost of the proposal, according to the estimates of the engineering bureau and the Turn to Page 8, Col. 6

Caucus Picks Incumbent Clerk to Hold Positions of Clerk-Treasurer

FREMONT — Mrs. Nathan Peters was nominated without opposition for the offices of clerk and treasurer of the village at the caucus Thursday night.

The two offices are not officially combined, but with the election of Mrs. Peters in April one officer would hold the two positions for the first time in village history.

Mrs. Orvin Zempel, clerk of the village for two years, was renominated, but declined.

When no candidates sought the office of clerk in the 1965 April election 49 of the 183 ballots carried write-in names. Of the 14 write-ins, Mrs. Kenneth Abraham was re-elected, but declined to accept. Mrs. Zempel was the appointed clerk.

All three incumbent trustees, whose terms of office expire, were renominated. They are Ronald Abbott, Dr. Walter Neuschafer and Walter Warnke. Also nominated were Harlan Brogaard, John Looker and Melvin Maierhafer. The ballots will have all six names, the voters to vote for three.

Thomas Pitt, village president, was renominated without opposition.

Agent for 4-H Girls Is Hired

Sharon Hutjens, route 2, West DePere, was selected by the Outagamie County Board's agriculture and conservation committee Friday to fill the position of 4-H Economics Agent.

Easter, 1967, Among Earliest In This Century

Complex Reckoning System Can Vary Date by 34 Days

CHICAGO (AP) —Easter this year, March 26, is the earliest observance of the spring religious feast since 1951, when it fell on March 25.

It will be this early only twice again in this century, in 1978 and 1993. The earliest Easter in the 20th century occurred in 1940, when it fell on March 24. It will be a day earlier in the year 2008 — March 23.

Unlike Christmas, always Dec. 25, this religious holiday can range over a period of 35 days, from March 22 to April 25, because of the complicated method of reckoning it.

The last time Easter fell on March 22 was in 1818. The next time will be 2285. The last March 23 Easter was that of 1913. In 1962 Easter fell on April 22. It will not reach its latest possible date, April 25, until 2038.

There have been, and are, moves to assign Easter a fixed date. Should this ever be done, it would mean the end of controversies and complications as old as Christendom itself.

The Gospels note that Christ celebrated the Passover on Thursday, although the priesthood of his day observed it on Friday, the day of the Crucifixion.

Jews who embraced Christianity linked the Easter festival with the traditional Passover and believed it should be observed on the 14th of Nisan, first month of the Jewish calendar, regardless of the day of the week. Christians from among the Gentiles wanted the observance on Sunday, day of the Resurrection.

The controversy raged into the fourth century. The Christian church in the East followed the Jewish tradition, that in the West the Gentile.

Nicene Creed

In 325 A.D. the Council of Nicea, first of the Christian ecumenical meetings, adopted the Nicene Creed, standardizing beliefs of the young faith. It also decreed that Easter be observed on the first Sunday after the full moon after the vernal equinox, the date when the sun crosses the equator into the Northern Hemisphere.

The date of the equinox was to be fixed each year in Alexandria, Egypt, ancient center of astronomical science. The full moon was tied into the formula to give pilgrims the advantage of moonlight in their travels to shrines.

But disagreement persisted. The time of the equinox varied according to longitude. When March 21 was standardized as the date of the equinox, inaccuracies of the Julian calendar and the difficulty of reconciling the lunar calendar with the solar year brought more confusion.

And friction developed in 1582 when Pope Gregory XIII promulgated the calendar we now observe. The East spurned any revision emanating from Rome. The West accepted it readily, except for Britain and Ireland, which followed the Julian calendar until 1752.

Life of Christ Film to be Shown on TV

"The Vine," a documentary depicting the life of Christ, will be aired at 3 p.m. Sunday over NBC Channel 5 will carry the show.

Prepared in cooperation with the Southern Baptist Radio-TV Commission, the film was shot on location in the Holy Land.

It has been in the planning stages since 1960 and was co-produced by Miss Doris Ann, manager of NBC religious programming and Dr. Paul M. Stevens, executive director of the radio-TV Commission, who served as religious consultant. NBC's Martin Hoade was director of the hour-long color recreation of Christ's days on earth.

According to Miss Ann, the message of the glory of Christ is presented in a unique manner. "It is both inspirational and contemporary and portrays more an experience with which people could identify rather than a historical story," she said.

The religious radio-TV commission is an agency of the Southern Baptists Convention, which consists of more than 10 million members in more than 33,000 churches in all 50 states.

The Valley Baptist Church, under the guidance of pastor, the Rev. Byron Epps, are members of the Southern Baptist Convention.

The POWER of FAITH

Dr. Kazutaka Watanabe is a third generation Christian in Japan. His grandfather, a Samawai warrior was so moved when he heard Christian pipe-organ music that he became a convert. Dr. Watanabe's father was a Baptist minister for 54 years.

Educated at the Japan University, at Colgate, Oxford and the University of Berlin, Dr. Watanabe has taught college all his life. He is also cultural advisor to Headquarters U.S. Forces and to the Fifth Air Force in Japan.

Besides being a Christian, Dr. Watanabe understands and accepts the faith of his ancestors, Buddhism. To us of the western world this may be hard to understand. But to the Japanese and Dr. Watanabe it is a natural approach.

"I have two souls and I have no conflict," he says. His articles and talks show sympathy and understanding for both great faiths. He points out: "There are 50,970,000 Buddhists in Japan and 641,000 Christians," yet "in 1961, 2,750,000 copies of the Bible were sold in Japan. Since the end of the war about 30,000,000 copies have been sold and a great number of free copies have been distributed."

Scabies Are Caused By Burrowing Parasite

BY JOSEPH MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Can you give me information about scabies or acariasis? I think I had it, and used sulphur mixed with petroleum jelly on my skin, and also boiled clothing, sheets, etc., with a disinfectant. What sort of bug causes this?—E.J.

Dr. Molner

Acariasis is an attack of one kind of mites; scabies is infestation with the mite called Sarcoptes scabiei. The female of this tiny parasite burrows into the outer layers of the skin, which is problem enough, but then she lays eggs which hatch and tend to congregate around hair roots. A thoroughly unpleasant experience, since the itching is very severe, but if the mites are not destroyed, the patient can't help scratching. Infection, rash and other secondary troubles follow.

It is possible for the secondary inflammation to become so severe that it is difficult to tell what the original trouble was. However, the positive proof is to dig one of the mites out of the skin so it can be identified.

The sulphur mixture mentioned is a version of one of the older sulphur ointments. More effective medications are available today. A very thorough soap and water bath, followed by application of a benzyl benzoate emulsion, or a mixture of that with benzocaine and DDT (which suppresses the itching as well as destroying the mites) is used now. The process should be repeated again the next morning, but any applications after that should not be done except with specific permission from your doctor, since repeated use irritates the skin and starts a new kind of trouble.

Every particle of skin from the neck down should be covered, and the mites have a way of hiding in folds of skin. I say from the neck down because, except in babies, the mites do not attack the face.

Since the mites pass from person to person, it is quite common for an entire family to be infested, and all must get rid of the pests to avoid a new outbreak. Any sign of the mites, burrowing again should of course bring instant attention. Ordinary laundering of clothing and bedding is sufficient. They need not be boiled and disinfected. Dry cleaning or thoroughly ironing will destroy the mites in other garments.

Dear Dr. Molner: My husband told me that hair and fingernails keep growing after a person is dead. I don't see how this is possible, but the thought bothers me as I recently lost my mother and a baby son.—Mrs. D. G.

It is not true. It is an old belief which came about because the tissues relax and shrink slightly after death. Thus the stubble of a man's beard became slightly more visible—and people mistakenly assumed that it was growing. The same would be true to a small extent with the nails.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have heard lately of a drug that is very successful in arresting tuberculosis, and also that it is very expensive. Can you give me any information?—C. W.

I don't know of anything which fits that description. At least three drugs are very effective but have now been in use for years. Streptomycin in conjunction with PAS (para-aminosalicylic acid) is widely used. Several varieties of the isoniazids (isonicotinic acid hydrazide) have come into use a little more recently. I wouldn't regard them as exceptionally expensive.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am very concerned about the danger of raw eggs. How about soft-boiled eggs?—Mrs. J. L.

Either soft-boiling or poaching is the equivalent of pasteurizing them, which destroys harmful bacteria if any are present. Eat such eggs without fear.

"Tips On How To Stop Smoking," by Dr. Molner, will help you give up the habit. To receive a copy of the booklet, write to Dr. Molner in care of this newspaper, enclosing your request 10 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope. (Copyright 1967)

Don't Buy What You Cannot See

BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD

If you're in the habit of spending your money before you know what you'll get for it, your spouse makes sure you don't have much money to spend. If you act the same way at the bridge table, your partner makes sure you don't play many hands.

South took dummy's ace of West dealer Both sides vulnerable NORTH ♠ A 7 5 3 ♡ Q 5 3 ♦ Q 9 ♣ A 9 8 7 2 WEST ♠ A 3 10 8 ♡ Q 7 10 9 6 ♦ K 3 6 2 ♣ None SOUTH ♠ K 6 4 ♡ None ♦ A 8 5 3 ♣ K Q J 10 5 4 North Pass East Pass 3 Pass 2 4 Pass 5 Pass 6 4 Opening lead — ♡ Q hearts, discarding a spade from his hand. He drew two rounds of trumps and then led the six of spades toward dummy. West stepped up the ace of spades and returned a spade, clashing the king and queen of spades on the same trick. West eventually defeated the slam with his diamond trick.

"I should have discarded a diamond on the ace of hearts," South muttered, but he was wrong. West would then play low on the first spade trick, would win the next spade and lead a third spade. West would still get a diamond trick. South should make the contract by saving the ace of hearts until he knows what to do with it. He should ruff the first heart, lead a club to the king and then lead a low spade toward dummy.

Must Play Low West cannot take the ace of spades since that would allow South to discard a diamond from dummy on the king of spades. West must play low, and dummy wins with the queen of spades.

Now South can ruff a heart, get back to dummy with a trump, and discard a spade on the ace of hearts. South ruffs dummy's last heart and leads the king of spades, forcing West to take the trick. If West returns a diamond, dummy's queen wins a trick; if West returns anything else,

HINTS FROM Heloise

Dear Heloise:

After working seven years with a commercial and residential cleaning firm, I believe I have the solution to cleaning smoked fireplaces.

Most stores sell what is called art gum erasers. These are ordinarily used to erase charcoal drawings.

Buy yourself a couple and just start erasing.

These erasers work especially well on porous rock fronts. On smoother stone or brick fireplaces, after using the art gum and getting all of the smoke off that is possible, it can then be washed with a strong solution of tri-sodium phosphate. We use one-half cup to one gallon of water.

For days my husband and I reminisced about the milk of our childhood and all the delicious flavors it came in: chocolate, cherry, strawberry, etc., until the children's interest was aroused.

That night I made some milk using the powdered milk and added strawberry flavoring. The children loved it.

After a week of different flavored milk every day, we allowed them to make it themselves, which added to their delight.

Here is the way I shorten my machine-knitted skirt on knit dresses:

I put the skirt on and while standing in front of a mirror, pull it up to the desired length.

I put a string or belt around my waistline and mark along this point with a piece of chalk. After removing the skirt, I zig-zag two rows loosely along the mark and cut the excess off above the stitching.

Bias facing may then be put on the skirt to make a heading and elastic run through this.

By using a zig-zag attachment, it allows the material to stretch and the threads won't run.

Chance for Curing Homosexual Slim, Saddened Mother Told

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Before our younger daughter married I had a strong suspicion that her fiancé was a homosexual. He had none of the effeminate mannerisms that people generally identify with this condition but his friends were all notorious homos.

I told my daughter of my fears and asked her why a person would run with a crowd like that unless he was one of them. Finally she said, "I have first-hand knowledge that he is normal." Her answer was both a blow and relief.

Last week (after six months of marriage) my daughter tearfully confided that her husband has almost no physical interest in her and that he is out five nights a week with his strange friends.

What does this sound like to you? What is the solution? If he is a homosexual can he be cured?—Shattered Mother

Dear Mother: It sounds as if your daughter's husband is bi-sexual and that he prefers his male friends to his wife.

The chances for "curing" a homosexual are slim, even when the sick one wants desperately to live a normal life. If he prefers to be with members of his own sex, the chances for a cure are zero.

Your daughter should have a frank talk with her husband and discuss the possibility of an annulment.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I dated a widower for over a year and grew very fond of him. There was every indication that with washable carpeting, made of nylon, sometimes with vinyl coverings, these durable floor coverings can be scoured repeatedly with soap or detergent suds.

Yesterday he telephoned to say he is getting married. At first I thought he was kidding but it soon became clear that he was serious. He swears that he is not in love with the woman but he says he can tolerate her. She has a lovely home and is well fixed. I asked how he could marry a woman he didn't love advantages. He probably does not love her, but then he didn't love you either, so cheer up. You came off better than she did.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My "problem" is unimportant compared with the problems most people write to you about but it has caused so much trouble in our family you wouldn't believe it. Six people are not speaking to each other on account of this.

When a person returns to a town where he used to live, should he telephone his relatives and say "hello" or should he assume that his relatives will know he is in town and call him if they want to see him?—Fur Flying.

Dear Fur: The person who goes to another city to visit should write in advance to friends and relatives he wishes to see or he should telephone them when he arrives. The visitor who expects people to learn he is in town and call him is rather arrogant.

Working Women Not All Gravy

There apparently is always going to be a controversy over whether or not a wife and mother should work outside the home. It may be that the matter is purely academic now as the trend is definitely toward more and more married women with jobs besides that of housewife. And there are all kinds of reasons with perhaps the best the fact that many women's talents may run in different directions than cooking and cleaning.

But the argument that the money brought in is needed often depends upon the way the household is run. And if it runs to TV dinners, that budget ought to be closely examined.

The West Allis Star Women's Editor compiled some figures from teachers at the vocational school which indicate where some of our food costs are going. A dozen rolls which cost 50 cents can be made at home for 17 cents. If a family has three dozen rolls a week or the equivalent, the amount saved by staying home and baking would be almost $36 a year. One cup cake costs about 8 cents but can be made for 3 1/2 cents. A can of chicken a la king costs 63 cents but can be made at home for 41 cents. Stuffed baked potatoes can be fixed at home for 19 cents while the frozen prepared variety comes to 39 cents. Onions chopped at home amount to 18 cents for the same amount bought chopped and frozen for 34 cents. Home made macaroni and cheese is 11 cents, the average serving bought already fixed is twice that. And it costs only 6 cents to pop and butter your own corn from the kernel but the stuff all packaged to pop is 29 cents. And so it goes through gravy, frozen vegetables, pies, cakes and stews.

Of course there are lots of wives without other jobs who prefer the packaged mixes and the prepared foods anyway and maybe their families do too. And there probably are some of the old-fashioned variety who can work eight hours in an office and then whip together a tasty meal from scratch from the least expensive foods.

Furthermore during the current shortage of employees in many fields, the working women are badly needed in the labor market. And all the packaged foods have meant an economic boom too.

But the wife who works because she claims she can't afford not to ought to check over her kitchen habits and that budget before she is sure.

Defining the 'Ombudsman'

Commentators on public affairs here and abroad during recent years have been attracted by the idea of the "ombudsman" or people's troubleshooter in government as it has been developed elsewhere in the world and notably in the Scandinavian countries.

The word has been borrowed from Scandinavian usage, and lately the concept has been discussed in the United States Congress, in some of the learned political science journals, and most recently, on the floor of the Wisconsin legislature.

As the plan has been evolved experimentally in Europe, it provides for a totally independent public officer who would have the duty and the power to investigate complaints from ordinary citizens about the operations of governmental services and bureaus. Doubtless the idea has had a strong appeal elsewhere because of the popular awareness of the vast growth of government, the enormous expansion of its powers over the affairs of ordinary men and women, and the faceless character of much of the bureaucracy in the huge public services of our time.

Yet we wonder about the terms in which the "ombudsman" has been proposed in the Wisconsin legislature by a group of Democratic senators and assemblymen. As we understand the idea, they have distorted it considerably. The troubleshooter would not be directly available to the individual citizen. He would function as a kind of flunkie for members of the legislature and for their committees.

Thus, by implication at least, his services would not be available until the individual's complaint had been routed through his senator or assemblyman, who might not be responsive or interested in the private citizen's complaint. Suppose, for example, that a citizen had a legitimate grievance against a Democratic state officeholder and found it difficult to get a hearing for his complaint. Is it likely that a Democratic state senator would be eager to refer it to the ombudsman for prosecution? A Republican environment might be indifferent also.

Members of the Wisconsin legislature are steadily increasing their corps of assistants of all kinds. Indeed, they have advanced their staff and other perquisites in more generous steps during the last three or four legislative sessions than during any comparable period in the history of the legislature. For ourselves, we are intrigued by the ombudsman idea, having encountered the stony obduracy of some bureaucrats upon occasion. But the bill as presented does not accurately represent the plan and should be amended before it is seriously considered.

Internal Security Act Invalid?

A United States Court of Appeals has reversed the conviction of the Communist Party of violating the Internal Security Act of 1950 and has set aside the $230,000 fine.

The court found that certain provisions of the act were "hopelessly at odds" with the portion of the Fifth Amendment to the Constitution which protects against self-incrimination. And it is hard to figure out how Congress passed the law with the provisions.

The Internal Security Act requires the registration of the Communist Party and a list of its membership. But the Smith Act makes it a crime to belong to an organization advocating the violent overthrow of the government. Since the Internal Security Act specifies that the Communist Party is such an organization, registration of members would be obvious self-incrimination. The court said that Congress has "sought in effect to compel both disclosure by the party and at the same time the incrimination of its members ... The bill which started out as an effort to treat the party like other political parties in terms of disclosure ended up as legislation which singled the party out for subjection to the combined sanction of compelled disclosure and criminal punishment."

In effect, then, the Communist Party could be required to register as a subversive organization but not if membership in such an organization is a criminal offense.

Of course the Communist Party still advocates, although in much more muted tones, the overthrow of representative government. But it is difficult to understand what protection the Internal Security Act provisions about registration and, for that matter, the Smith Act making it a crime, offers to the nation. Survival is important and the nation must be aware of the nature of its internal and external enemies. But the spectre of the Communist Party, with what is really a mere handful of dedicated members, is a bogeyman. If communism ever gets many converts in this country — and the trend is obviously the other way around — it will gain them because of moral and economic failures of representative government and not by somehow sneaking up on Washington. We don't think there is any more chance of a Communist take-over of this country from within than there is for the bully boys of George Rockwell to do the same. Americans may often appear to be politically naive, but they are not suicidal.

Looking Backward

Even 'Old Glory' to be Taxed

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for March 2, 1867.

In the beautiful tax bill now before Congress, says the Madison Union, the most useful, necessary and common articles are taxed the highest.

Here is one instance. Bunting is manufactured in America only at a single factory in Lowell, Mass., in which Gen. Butler has a large interest.

It is now proposed to levy on this article an utterly unconscionable tariff, so that its cost will be enormously increased.

Bunting, when 18 inches wide, costs nine and three-fifths cents per yard in gold. The present tariff is 50 per cent a yard in gold. The duty proposed under this tariff bill now pending increases the cost to $1.35 per yard, which is just 900 per cent!

Bunting is the material from which our national flags are made. Since the late war, a flag has become almost a household necessity. This emblem of patriotism is used everywhere, and at all times, and is the most significant devotion of our people to the government.

Yet here is a proposition to levy such a duty on the material that bears our stars and stripes, that a flag hereafter will cost nine times what it was in former years.

This to protect Gen. Butler's mill at Lowell.

THE COMING BATTLE

South Africa has ruled the territory of South-West Africa since 1915 and refuses to give it up. The United Nations now claims the territory and will meet in April to decide how to get it. At stake are the future of over 500,000 people and vast wealth in diamonds, metals and Persian lamb skins.

Can South West Africa Become Independent?

BY WILLIAM N. OATIS

Associated Press Writer
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.

(AP) — South-West Africa, the territory the United Nations wants to take from South Africa, is bigger than Texas and Louisiana put together, but has fewer people than Memphis, Tenn.

It cannot produce enough food for its own needs, but it produces a large part of the world's Persian lamb pelts and gem diamonds.

South Africa seized South-West Africa from Germany in 1915, during the first World War, and in 1920 was given a League of Nations mandate to run the territory. After World War II, South Africa refused to follow the lead of other nations and put its mandated territory into the United Nations trusteeship system.

Last Oct. 27, the U.N. General Assembly found that South Africa had abused the mandate by disregarding "the moral and material wellbeing and security" of the natives. It declared the mandate terminated and said South-West Africa henceforth was a U.N. responsibility.

DECISION IN APRIL
The Assembly decided to hold a special session starting in April on how to administer the territory and bring it to independence. A special committee was set up to make recommendations on the subject. But South Africa has denounced the action, and the outcome is uncertain.

South-West Africa is bounded by South Africa, Botswana, Angola and the Atlantic Ocean. Its area is 318,261 square miles, compared with Texas and Louisiana's 315,261. Its population at the 1950 census was 525,004, compared with Memphis' 527,492.

At that time there were 450,540 nonwhites and 75,454 whites in the population.

Among the nonwhites tribal Negroes outnumber mixed bloods about 20 to 1. Some of the whites are descended from the original German settlers but most of them are from South Africa, and among the latter Afrikaaners (of Dutch origin) outnumber those of English origin.

Most of the nonwhites live on reserves in the northern third of the country. Nearly all the whites live in what is called the police zone in the southern two-thirds, but even there they are far fewer than the nonwhites.

The territory is dry like the southwestern United States. It has to import food and other consumer goods, largely from South Africa. But it raises lots of livestock.

South-West Africa is the world's largest producer of karakul sheep, whose pelts are sold under the name of Persian lamb. It averages 2.5 million of the 4.5 to 5 million pelts marketed yearly.

The karakul sheep thrive on the hot, dry scrubland. They are raised mainly on white-owned farms, 2,000 to 5,000 to a farm. The pelts are auctioned in London at prices ranging up to $11 apiece. Six out of 10 go to the West German garment industry. Many are sold to the United States.

In a normal year the territory will have up to 2.8 million karakul sheep and up to 2.5 million beef and dairy cattle. Many of the cattle are exported to South Africa.

There is commercial fishing in the Atlantic. Sardines (or pilchards) are caught near Walvis Bay and to the north. Rock lobsters are pulled from the sea bottom near Luderitz. Both are exported.

SECOND IN DIAMONDS

South-West Africa is second only to South Africa in the production of gem diamonds. It is sixth in the production of diamonds of all kinds, and gem diamonds make up 90 per cent of its production. Diamonds are mined in a concession along the coast northward from Oranjemund and recovered from gravel dredged up from the sea bottom.

At Tsumeb in the north, U.S. interests run one of the largest base metal mines in the world. The territory exports a lot of lead, copper, zinc and vanadium. But taxes do not cover all its budget, and South African subsidy is necessary.

A white-only legislative assembly levies the taxes and adopts the budget. A long-established mixed-blood community called the Bastards of the Rehoboth Gebiet has local self-government. Other mixed bloods have an advisory council working with the South African territorial administrator.

South Africa retains control of defense, foreign affairs, police and many other matters and has almost absolute authority over the native reserves. State President Charles Robert Swart has the title of paramount chief of all the Africans in the territory and can move them around at will.

Wisconsin Report

Initiative, Referendum Changes Being Debated in Legislature

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — Among the provocative elements of legislative politics in recent years has been the embracing by self-proclaimed conservatives of the initiative and referendum method of legislation. It was one of the key objectives of the populist politics of Wisconsin and the Middle West in the earlier years of the century.

Wyngaard

The essential conviction of the backers of the legislation by popular initiative and the rationale of the proposition in any test is that the elected legislature is not reliably representative of the people's desires or needs in its performance. Thus, as a kind of backstop, the initiative and referendum idea would permit an alternative system of law-making through direct action of the voters.

There is no reason to believe that the amendment as now offered in the State Assembly by a group of Republicans who are recognized as leaders of the ruling conservative bloc there will be enacted. It has been talked about over the decades without much response. Two years ago several state senators offered the proposition and made a reasonably strong push for it. But it aroused scarcely a ripple of interest in the Wisconsin electorate.

AUTHORSHIP FROM LEADERSHIP

This year there may be more interest, if only because of the authorship of the idea.

Sponsors of the amendment include Speaker Harold Froelich of the Assembly, who owes his leadership rank to a revolt of the conservatives over the moderates in his house, and such stalwart allies of the Froelich circle as Assemblymen Kenyon, Hutnik, Merkel, Blanchard, Shurbert, Anderson, Stalbaum and Lawrence Johnson, among others. Their proposition, despite its radical connotations in the political system, is a model of simplicity. They would write a constitutional provision that would permit the people of the state, or those of any municipality, to petition for a referendum vote to initiate, amend, or repeal any law, resolution or ordinance of the state or any of its municipalities. Such a referendum would then be submitted to the electorate at large. If a majority of the people would approve of the proposition, it would become law even as any other statute enacted by the legislature as representatives of the people becomes law.

It is necessary to note that the authors are cautious in their prescription of the machinery. The starting petition for such direct legislation, their proposal provides, would require signatures equal to eight per cent of the vote cast for governor of the last preceding election. That would require up to 100,000 signers. This would not be easy except on a question of such importance that it would make possible a campaign organization of considerable size.

POSSIBILITIES OF ACTION

Yet there are intriguing possibilities.

Would the state's oleo embargo survive such a constitutional opening for direct legislation?

How about the rule against noncommercial bingo that has figured in such interminable legislative controversy? Would the new sale taxes survive a popular referendum vote? Is it likely that a proposal for freezing the property tax rate, one of the hottest current issues, could be stopped in a referendum? Some of the men now sponsoring legislation by direct vote were opposed to the new open occupancy law adopted by the legislature two years ago after a bitter struggle. A California precedent suggests that the new law, if put to a popular vote, would be difficult to hold.

There may also be sly critics of the legislature as an institution who will wonder whether some of its own housekeeping arrangements could survive a popularity test.

The lawmakers have generously increased their salaries and other benefits, and even now are busily planning to enlarge them again. Could they get popular backing if they put such questions on the ballot for the decisive judgment of their constituents?

Girl Scouts Need More Time in School Buildings

Editor, Post-Crescent:

I read with interest the letter in Sunday's People's Forum in regard to the possible expense of providing bags for garbage collection. I would like to add an item to that writer's list of more worthwhile ways to spend our tax money.

First of all let me explain something. Last week the Girl Scout Troops that meet in the three public schools in the outlying area and some of the smaller schools in the city were told that they must now be out of the school buildings by 4:30 as the janitor goes off duty at this time. At the earliest we are able to start our meetings at a quarter to four and so that we will be out of the buildings on time we must close by 4:20. A meaningful and enjoyable meeting cannot be held in thirty-five minutes. Since the larger schools have not had their meeting time cut (as yet) a feeling of unfairness is added to the other problem.

One of the purposes of Scouting is to inspire the child with the highest ideals of character, conduct, patriotism, and service that she may become a happy and resourceful citizen. Isn't it wiser to spend money to build a better citizen then to have to spend it to rehabilitate him after he has gotten into trouble. So wouldn't it be better to wrap our garbage and channel more money to the school system so they could afford to pay the janitors overtime to keep the schools open to the Scouts and other worthwhile programs.

Compulsory Retirement Immoral And Impractical, Reader Contends

Editor, Post-Crescent.

Proclamations of the recent "Brotherhood Week" referring to "human rights" and a February statement by Wisconsin's governor as to "equal opportunity for all" to serve to underline the fate of such expressions in our society. underline the fate of such expressions in our society. Those battle cries of the crusader unapplied to all forms of discrimination and unaccompanied by constant correction of the evil are being transformed rapidly into meaningless sounds by our specialists in platitudes.

While our society seems somewhat aware of their relevance to the American Negro, the comprehension of such terms as pertinent to women appears less discernible, and our society's grasp of their application to the age group of 65 years and older seems almost non-existent.

In effect, some industries and some governmental units for years have been telling us that American citizens are fit and competent to work until the moment of their sixty-fifth birthday at which instant those industries and governments wave their magic wands of decreed age, thereby, change those citizens into unfit and incompetent human beings. Most of us have read more believable fairy tales than that one.

To compel retirement from employment or to deny employment to a competent person in that age group is to discriminate against a citizen because of age and to repudiate the ideal of "equal opportunity for all." To discriminate against a citizen because of age is just as much a violation of "human rights" as discrimination because of race, religion or sex.

Not only is discrimination against age immoral but it is also impractical — as the immoral always is. Discrimination in the form of compulsory retirement ignores the potential productivity of the retiree either in his terminated job or in possible alternative jobs. Thus compulsory retirement increases economic waste instead of reducing it.

Compulsory retirement in its economic aspect means exiling many persons to a Siberia of fixed, inadequate income and a generally ascending cost of living. This is one of the causes of our national poverty problem.

Compulsory retirement is not only immoral and impractical but unnecessary. Studies and surveys indicate the rate of occupational injuries is lowest in the 65-and-over age group and that absenteeism from work is no more significant of that group than of any other. Some even show that absenteeism decreases as age increases. Moreover, many industries and governments have found flexible and voluntary retirement systems quite satisfactory to employee and employer.

Because it is basically wrong, the practice of compulsory retirement by industry or government casts either one in the role of a public enemy, inviting penalties in the market place or at the polls.

Lawrence Flutist in Sunday Concert With Green Bay Symphony

Mary Finnigan to Perform With St. Norbert Students; Repeat Program Set for Monday

Flutist Mary Finnigan, of her senior recital in February Lawrence Conservatory of Music last year and will give her recital, will be among the array of senior recital as a flutist Friday night joining the day, April 21, in Harper Hall, Green Bay Symphony Orchestra. She also sings with the choir at Sunday in one of the most First Congregational Church in elaborate programs in the ensemble's 20-year history.

The concert, at 8:15 p.m. in to Miss Finnigan last Saturday Green Bay's West High Auditorium, is sold out, so no tickets will be available for general sale. The program will be repeated, however, Monday night as a youth concert in Penning's Hall of Fine Arts at St. Norbert College. The March 13 repeat is being sponsored by St. Norbert College, the DePere Kiwanis Club and Union Local 205, American Federation of Musicians through a grant from the Recording Artists' trust fund.

Miss Finnigan, first place winner in the Symphony's competition for young people, will appear with the Misses Sue Prueher and Sue Osterhaus, second and third place winners from St. Norbert College. Others assisting with the program are the Green Bay Chamber Choir, St. Norbert College Chamber Singers and four Wisconsin soloists.

A former Lawrence University student and Conservatory graduate, tenor Richard Vander Bloemen, is one of the soloists. He currently is choral director at Luxemburg High School.

Recent Contest Winner Miss Finnigan, senior music student of Prof. Fred Schroeder, has been a member of the Lawrence University Concert Band and the Lawrence Concert Orchestra for all four years at the school. She also played one year with the Lawrence Chamber Orchestra. She presented the Prelude and "Good Friday, Creek.

Johnson Speech

The belief in a re-election bid by Johnson, who said Thursday William G. Phillips, "I'm satisfied now," he added.

Asked if he thought Johnson would seek another four-year term next year, Wyman replied closed session of the committee "there is not a doubt in my mind."

Other members expressed similar views, and the meeting closed by adopting unanimously a resolution commending the administration's handling of the Vietnam war and urging Johnson and Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey "to make them speech," then circulated among themselves available as our leaders members discussing some of his and their — political problems.

"He was more political than he has been for some time, and I'm glad he was," said Miss Lucy Redd, Utah national committeewoman.

Besides offering the resolution supporting the President and his prospective candidacy, several party leaders made pointed appeals for party unity behind the President.

Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien, recalling in a luncheon speech how both Humphrey and Johnson had rallied to the side of the late John F. Kennedy in the 1960 campaign, called on national committee members to show similar support now for Johnson.

"Will you... within your states... will you, too, stand shoulder to shoulder with your fellow Democrats?" O'Brien asked.

The audience applauded the specially designed wheel chair, then circulated among speech by the one-time close aide to President Kennedy.

Settlement Sets Record

CHICAGO (AP) — James A. Doolan, 28, an Irish immigrant worker, used his shoulder to ink an "X" as his signature and received a $696,000 personal injury settlement. That sum is said to be the largest ever awarded to a living person by an American court.

Doolan, who can move only his head and one shoulder, was injured Aug. 20, 1964 while working as a construction laborer for the Case Foundation Co., of Kennebec, Ill.

The injury occurred when a one-ton tripod platform slipped off a truck and slammed onto Doolan. It broke his neck and severely damaged his spinal cord.

The Doolan now manipulates a specially designed wheel chair with his shoulder, a procedure the power in the state."

he learned in the 20 months he was hospitalized.

Doolan's wife, Sheila, 23, was present at the signing of the settlement Friday. The couple had been married only seven weeks before the accident occurred.

The Doolans said they plan to return to their native County Cork, Ireland, as soon as they can settle all their affairs.

Tammany Enemy of Bobby Kennedy Quits

NEW YORK (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, has called for unity among New York City Democrats after Tammany Hall leader J. Raymond Jones resigned in a rift with Kennedy.

Jones, 67, the first and only Negro county chairman in the city, resigned Friday as Manhattan Democratic leader.

He cited a lack of support by Kennedy as one of the major reasons. He said Kennedy is "the power in the state."

Miss Stalina Given Asylum In Switzerland

the death of Stalin in 1953.

Sources in Washington, Moscow, New Delhi and Rome gave this account of Miss Stalina's movements:

Husband Dies

In December or January her husband or friend, Indian Communist Brijesh Singh, 59, died in Moscow. He was cremated and she was given permission to take his ashes back to India and visit his family.

An Indian reporter writing in the Statesman, published in New Delhi and Calcutta, said Singh belonged to a well-known landed family in Uttar Pradesh State. The reporter said he met Miss Stalina in Moscow last July and described her as "tall, slim, freckled and blonde" and said she "showed signs of being under some kind of mental or nervous strain."

The Hindustan Times reported Miss Stalina dropped out of sight a few weeks after she arrived in India.

In New Delhi, according to unofficial reports from Washington, Miss Stalina told U.S. Embassy officials she feared her life was in danger in the Soviet Union and she was given a U.S. visa.

Flew to Rome

On the day her children awaited her in Moscow, sources in Rome said, Miss Stalina left India and flew to Rome. They said she received permission from Italian authorities to remain in Rome for 48 hours.

Reports circulated there that she was sheltered in the home of Frederick Reinhardt, U.S. ambassador to Rome, but U.S. Embassy officials said they had no information.

Miss Stalina retired to an obscure, studious life after her father's death in 1953. Russians who knew her during her father's rule said she was one of the few persons he deeply loved.

expanded their targets in North Vietnam.

The steel plant made bridge sections, cargo barges and petroleum drums all of which, the spokesman said, "contribute directly to the infiltration of men and supplies from the North into South Vietnam."

The plant was hit by Air Force F105 Thunderchief fighter-bombers from Thailand bases and pilots reported their bombs on target with smoke rising to 5,000 feet.

The attack cost one Thunderchief, which went down during Friday's raid and the pilot is missing, the U. S. command said, for the 478th announced combat loss over the North.

In ground fighting close to Saigon, units of the 3rd Brigade, U. S. 9th Infantry Division clashed with a Viet Cong force of unknown size on the north bank of the Oriental River. The fighting, 14 miles southwest of the capital, broke out early today when a company (about 200 men) of the 3rd Brigade was hit by the enemy force. Helicopters brought in reinforcements to build up the U. S. force to battalion size or about 1,200 men.

The corporation publishes Time, Life, Fortune and Sports Illustrated magazines and Time-Life Books. It has annual sales of more than $500 million.

All three television sets are manufactured by Sony, a Japanese firm.

the death of Stalin in 1953.

Sources in Washington, Moscow, New Delhi and Rome gave this account of Miss Stalina's movements:

Husband Dies

In December or January her husband or friend, Indian Communist Brijesh Singh, 59, died in Moscow. He was cremated and she was given permission to take his ashes back to India and visit his family.

An Indian reporter writing in the Statesman, published in New Delhi and Calcutta, said Singh belonged to a well-known landed family in Uttar Pradesh State. The reporter said he met Miss Stalina in Moscow last July and described her as "tall, slim, freckled and blonde" and said she "showed signs of being under some kind of mental or nervous strain."

The Hindustan Times reported Miss Stalina dropped out of sight a few weeks after she arrived in India.

In New Delhi, according to unofficial reports from Washington, Miss Stalina told U.S. Embassy officials she feared her life was in danger in the Soviet Union and she was given a U.S. visa.

Flew to Rome

On the day her children awaited her in Moscow, sources in Rome said, Miss Stalina left India and flew to Rome. They said she received permission from Italian authorities to remain in Rome for 48 hours.

Reports circulated there that she was sheltered in the home of Frederick Reinhardt, U.S. ambassador to Rome, but U.S. Embassy officials said they had no information.

Miss Stalina retired to an obscure, studious life after her father's death in 1953. Russians who knew her during her father's rule said she was one of the few persons he deeply loved.

Joins Byrnes

Steiger Asks Reduction in Dairy Imports, Especially Colby Cheese

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Rep. William Steiger has joined fellow Republican Rep. John Byrnes (R-Green Bay) and Wisconsin state legislators in asking the Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman asking him to invoke Section 22 of the Agriculture Adjustment Act to limit imports of milk equivalent as is allowable under present quota regulations.

Steiger cited that the country was importing 12 times as much Colby-type milk equivalent as is allowable under present quota regulations.

He said the "unlimited quantities of Colby-type cheese being imported are going to have a profound effect on the Wisconsin farmer if not reduced."

He noted that Colby cheese is "very similar, if not identical," to cheddar cheese which enters the U. S. under quota limitations. Colby, however, has no restriction and therefore may enter in unlimited quantities.

61.5 Per Cent of Taxes Collected

KAUKAUNA — Approximately 61.5 per cent of the total tax roll of $1,681,069 has been collected to date, according to figures released Friday by Mrs. Elaine Brown Huycke, city treasurer.

The total collected is comparable to that paid in the same period last year. Real estate taxes collected amounted to $1,007,874 and personal property taxes collected amounted to $108,834. In addition, $42,764 was collected in special assessments. Delinquent personal property taxes amounted to $727 and delinquent real estate taxes amounted to $17,533. Postponed taxes amounted to $483,625. The tax roll has been turned over to the county treasurer who will be responsible for collecting the remainder of the funds.

In his letter to the secretary, Steiger said that in the calendar year 1966, imports of milk equivalent increased by 300 per cent (900 million pounds to 2.6 billion) over the preceding year. "Yet, the quota for milk equivalent is less than 190 million pounds," he stated.

Steiger said the Agriculture Department predicted total imports in 1967 will approximate 3.5 billion pounds of milk, calculated on a butter fat basis. "Such a situation cannot be allowed to continue," he stated. "The law clearly authorizes the president, upon a recommendation by the secretary of agriculture, to immediately impose restrictions on imports and order an investigation by the tariff commission." Steiger stated.

"To hesitate further to take action under the provisions of the law will do serious damage to the farmers of Wisconsin and the country," he said.

Ask New Sheriff Personnel

Office Workers Would Free Patrolmen for Patrol Duty

OSHKOSH — Additional office personnel for the sheriff's department is being recommended to the personnel committee by the sheriff and coroner committee at the request of Sheriff Marvin Peppler.

Peppler told the committee Friday the department needed another person to handle complaints and requests which were brought in person to the office, and to assist in typing of reports. He also asked for a part-time typist to type reports for department investigators.

He said the additional help would free patrolmen for more patrol duty and would also take some of the work load from Mrs. Elaine Hoppe, the county policewoman, who, he said, now often must work from 7:30 to 6 or 7:30 p.m.

The committee, minus Chairman E. G. Steinhilber, decided to hold off for a month a decision on whether to furnish the coroner a new police radio for his car. They authorized Harold Davis, radio technician, to remove the present radio from Coroner Art Miller's car so the old police radio system could be phased out.

Davis told the committee that Miller's radio was the only one left operating on the old system and that he wanted to turn all of the old radios back in to the Motorola Corp.

Supv. Victor Delwiche, Oshkosh, said he recalled in previous committee discussion that a radio wouldn't be furnished the coroner. However, committee Vice Chairman Archie Daggett suggested they wait until Steinhilber returned before making a decision.

The committee also clarified a contract with the Motorola Corp for servicing the new radio system and the radios in the highway department trucks.

Davis, who had been employed by the county, retired Feb. 1 and is now employed by Motorola to continue servicing the county equipment.

Robert Graf, administrative assistant in the highway department, said the contract with Motorola calls for Davis to service all of the radio equipment plus the radar, red lights and sirens on the squad cars.

Dems Push Higher Aids for School Districts

Twin Cities Could Receive More Funds, Dem Chairman Says

NEENAH-MENASHA — Neenah School District would receive $272,309 more in state school aids for the 1966-69 school year than it did for the 1966-67 year if a proposed revised state aids formula bill is passed, according to J. Louis Hansen, state chairman of the Wisconsin Democratic party.

The figures for Neenah, and other Twin Cities area districts, were contained in a letter sent to school board members urging them to attend a public hearing on the identical Senate and Assembly bills on Wednesday in Madison.

Hansen, in the letter, charged that Gov. Warren Knowles and the Republican leadership in the legislature are opposing the bills.

According to Hansen's figures, Neenah is receiving $416,518 in school aids under the present formula. If the proposed change is passed, the Neenah district would receive $348,830 for the 1967-68 fiscal year, and $668,827 for 1968-69.

The Menasha district would not be affected as much, according to Hansen. For the current year, Menasha received $152,386. In 1968-69 Menasha would get $164,918, an increase of $12,532. Omro would have an increase of $24,221 a year; Oshkosh, $335,873, and Winneconne, $37,160.
